Ia Orana, Welcome...

Verdant mountains rising up from turquoise coral fringed lagoons, French chic and a touch of luxury all contribute to making The Islands of Tahiti irresistible. What we often simply refer to as Tahiti is actually five archipelagos known as French Polynesia, officially still part of France. Tahiti is the largest of the Society Islands, which also includes the gorgeous islands of Moorea and Bora Bora. The iconic beauty of The Islands of Tahiti is well known. Coral reefs, abundant with marine life, protect impossibly blue shallow lagoons - perfect places for swimming, watersports or simply admiring from an idyllic stretch of beach. Make a dream come true and find yourself in an overwater bungalow, waking up in luxury and diving into warm turquoise waters straight from your own deck.

The Islands of Tahiti offer a unique and memorable experience - Enjoy!

Travel Tips

French Polynesia is also known as The Islands of Tahiti. There are 118 islands comprising The Islands of Tahiti, of which Tahiti is the main island and the home of the capital city of Papeete. Faa'a International Airport is located on The Island of Tahiti approximately 5 kilometres west of Papeete.

From Australia, Air Tahiti Nui is the international airline to The Islands of Tahiti. It offers flights from Australia to Papeete, via Auckland.

International flights arrive on the island of Tahiti. Due to crossing the International Dateline, most flights from Australia arrive the day before they depart. Holiday packages in The Islands of Tahiti will usually require one night in Papeete before travelling to another island the following morning. Most passengers returning to Australia will require one night in Papeete prior to departure, as flights leave early in the morning.

Air Tahiti is a private, domestic airline which links all five archipelagos. Travel between some islands, such as Tahiti to Moorea, can be made by high-speed catamaran.

We recommend booking the same hotel chain throughout your visit, as 'Island Combo' specials are available. We also recommend booking transfers throughout your visit as many resorts are located on islets within the lagoon, only accessible by boat.

Passports & Visas

Australian passport holders do not currently require a visa for a stay as a tourist of up to three months but must hold a passport with six months validity beyond the date of departure from The Islands of Tahiti.

If you are a non-Australian passport holder please check your visa requirements with the appropriate Embassy or Consular office. Please note you may also require a transit visa for New Zealand if you are flying via Auckland.

Currency

The local currency is the French Pacific Franc (XPF). There are plenty of ATMs and banks in Tahiti however access can be difficult in the outer islands. Major credit cards are accepted in most hotels, restaurants, boutiques and other tourist establishments. We do recommend you carry some local currency for smaller purchases.

Note: AUD$1 = 80 XPF approximately.

Pricing & Seasonality

For all hotels on The Islands of Tahiti a compulsory local city tax of approximately 150XPF per person per night must be paid directly to the hotels - for your guidance this amount has been included in the prices shown in this brochure.

All prices in this brochure are shown in Australian Dollars (AUD) and are per person, per night, twin share, based on low season travel and are to be used as a guide only.

While seasons may vary for each resort, generally speaking, the following seasons apply:

High Season: 1 June - 31 October & 20 December - 20 January

Low Season: Rest of the year

Seasonal surcharges, supplements, compulsory meals and/or transfers may apply during high season or at particular properties.

Climate

The Islands of Tahiti enjoy an even climate year-round with daytime temperatures around 28-30°C, dropping slightly in the evening. The weather is warmer and more humid from November through to May and drier and cooler from June until October. Year round, the sun rises between 5 and 6am and sets between 5.30 and 7pm. There is very little difference between high and low tide in Tahiti.

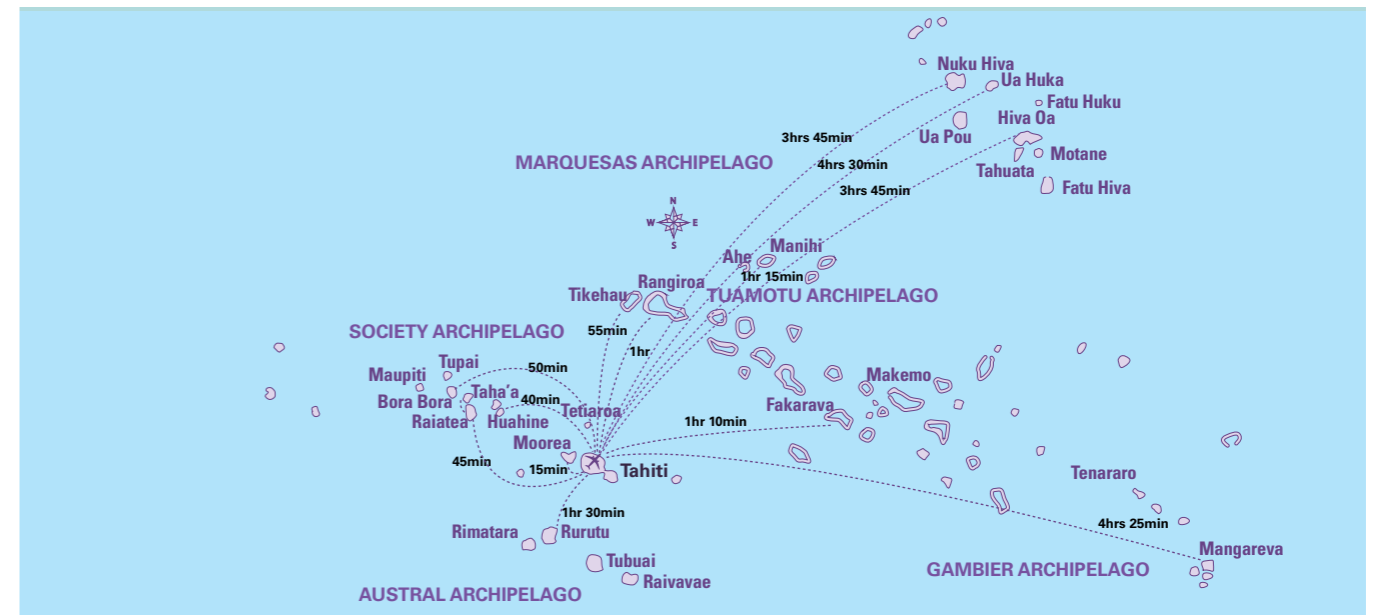

Tahiti is a true Honeymoon destination & many hotels offer free gifts to Honeymooners. Look for this red heart throughout the brochure to identify the resorts offering gifts. Honeymoon gifts range from a bottle of champagne on arrival, to sarongs and t-shirts, massages and romantic dinners. Contact us for a full list of gifts on offer at the resorts. Not all Honeymoon gifts can be combined with resort specials so our Specialist Tahiti Consultants will guide you.

Many resorts throughout The Islands of Tahiti offer discounts depending on your length of stay. These range from free nights to free room upgrades, free meals, combined island tariff discounts and long stay tariff discounts. Look for this blue bonus logo throughout the brochure to identify the resorts where bonus deals are on offer. Contact us for the latest deals available at your preferred resorts.

Tips from the Team

As your Tahiti specialist, our team is brimming with suggestions to create a unique and memorable itinerary for you. With 118 amazing islands to discover there are endless possibilities, from wild and enticing to pristine and luxurious. The Islands of Tahiti await you...

Why not combine a stay on a high volcanic island (such as Tahiti Moorea or Bora Bora) with a few nights on a low lying atoll (such as Rangiroa or Tikehau)?

Island hopping is easy with an Air Tahiti airpass. If you're looking for untouched beaches and stunning lagoons, head to Huahine or Maupiti. For amazing snorkelling and diving experiences head to the Tuamotu Archipelago.

Tahiti does not have to be expensive! There is a great range of accommodation styles to suit a variety of budgets. Pensions are the best way to see authentic Polynesia. They give you the unique opportunity to interact with local people.

For a truly cultural and "off the beaten track" experience, visit the majestic Marquesas Archipelago. It is also the resting place of Paul Gauguin

The Islands of Tahiti is a wonderful destination for families who love spending time together. Speak to our Tahiti Specialists for advices of which resorts to stay at.
